Parish Vision Discussion led by Anita Crowder

Anita led the discussion among the members of Worship Commission for the Parish Vision committee.

In 2020, the parish will be debt free. The plan is to find out what the various parish commissions envision for the future of the parish to help determine the top three goals for the parish.

Anita led the meeting with the reading of scripture and a discussion of how the members of Worship Commission have experienced Christ in the parish.

Joe Bobbey read the mission statement for St. Columban.

The members were asked to consider three ideas for their vision for the future of the parish. They were then asked to write down the three ideas and share them among the members.

A common thread among the ideas shared was what can the members of the parish do to encourage people to become more involved in the parish.

On November 6th, the Vision team will meet to go over the ideas presented by the different commissions to begin to work on determining the final three goals for the parish. The process will take about five to six months to complete the goals once all of the commissions and various members of the parish share their ideas.

There will be future discussions to update the parish commissions on the goals and the progress of the goals.
